DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

1. Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tanabe et al. (# US 2001/0047044) in view of Owatari (# US 4489334).

Tanabe et al. differs from the claim of the present invention is that a concentration of oxygen dissolved in the ink is 0.1 to 2 ppm at 25 °C.

Owatari teaches that to get the excellent ink jetting property, and high quality printed image, initial concentration of oxygen dissolved in the ink is 5.3 ppm, and after placing the oxygen absorbing capsule in to the ink, the concentration of the oxygen dissolved in the ink is substantially 0 (almost 0) (column: 4, line: 5-11).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the ink composition of Tanabe et al. by the aforementioned teaching of Owatari in order to have the ink with excellent ink jetting property, and which gives high quality printing.

It is noted that the recitation " a concentration of oxygen dissolved in the ink is 0.1 to 2 ppm at 25 °C" appears to be as design expedient for an engineer depending upon particular environment and applications which the Owatari inkjet fluid supply to be used. Also since it has been held that where the general condition of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable range involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233.

Response to Arguments

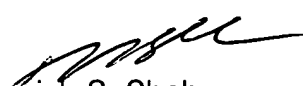

2. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-2 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
